

Pride and Joy Families' Favorite Sources:
What DOMA's repeal means for LGBTQ families
July 8, 2013

Family Equality Council

http://www.familyequality.org/get_informed/advocacy/after_doma/

Family Equality Council, collaboratively with 10 other LGBT organizations has released a comprehensive guide to understanding the ways in which the repeal of DOMA's Section 3 will impact families, and includes a link to resources regarding FAFSA for married couples whose new federal recognition requires some changes in the documentation that accompanies their children's requests for federal college financial aid.

National Center for Lesbian Rights

http://www.nclrights.org/site/PageServer?pagename=SCOTUS_2013_Stoll

NCLR has released a statement on the ways in which the wording of Justice Kennedy's majority opinion condemned the animus veiled by DOMA's legalities. The statement explains the impact of Kennedy's writing, and provides links to resources regarding the impact of the Court's Prop 8 and DOMA decisions.

The New York Civil Liberties Union

<http://www.nyclu.org/windsor?etname=DOMA+win&etjid=908479>

The lawyers and legal team of the NYCLU has assembled some information on what the repeal of Section 3 of DOMA means for you as a New York Citizen.

Third Way Enterprises

<http://www.thirdway.org/publications/710>

Political think-tank Third Way Enterprises has put together their own guide to understanding and navigating the changes brought on by Section 3 of DOMA's repeal. Third Way Enterprises is committed to maintaining an even-keel, pragmatic perspective regarding their political thought and policy; their objective and comprehensive guide to the facts about DOMA and its partial repeal are definitely worth reviewing.